About StageOne Family Theatre:

Now in its 71st season, StageOne Family Theatre provides quality professional theatre productions to children and families. Originally called The Louisville Children's Theatre, the company was formed in 1946, eventually becoming a professional acting company under the Actors' Equity Association, and in 1995 established residency at the Kentucky Center for the Performing Arts, where it operates to this day.

Today, StageOne is recognized as one of the nation's leading professional theatres for young audiences. The company has received numerous awards and commendations, including the Sara Spencer Award from the Southeast Theatre Conference and the American Alliance for Theatre in Education for Outstanding Contribution in the Field of Theatre for Young Audiences.

During any given season, StageOne's professional actors perform for well over 80,000 young people, their families, and teachers statewide across Kentucky and Southern Indiana, with each production tailored for a specific age group. StageOne's main stage productions are performed at The Kentucky Center's Bomhard Theater in Louisville.
